BALANCE

(A Bricolage for Legal Augmentation to Navigate Comprehensive Experimentation)

International Multidisciplinary Law Journal

JUNE - JULY 2016

ABOUT THE JOURNAL

BALANCE, the International Multidisciplinary Law Journal is an effort of Symbiosis Law School, Hyderabad campus (www.slsh.edu.in), a constituent of Symbiosis International University, Pune. As the subject of Law has grown to include normative and critical approaches calling for multidisciplinary involvement to make the field of Law more substantial, the objective of the journal is to cohere the multidisciplinary ideas to the field of Law thus forming a unified whole.

In a nutshell, the purpose of the journal is to create a platform to integrate research ideas of different fields of study into the academic stream of Law to create a synergistic value to field of Law. Given the above, the journal is aptly titled as BALANCE. There shall be two issues in a year. The word BALANCE not only denotes a situation in which different elements are equal or in correct proportions, but also projected as an abbreviation which can be expanded as A Bricolage of Legal Augmentation to Navigate a Comprehensive Experimentation. The word 'Bricolage' means construction of creation of things from a diverse range of available things.

CHIEF EDITOR'S DESK

I am elated to see BALANCE, the International Multidisciplinary Law Journal, Volume 2, and First Issue taking shape and seeing the light of the day. I am also excited and thankful to the contributors from India and abroad, and the members of the editorial board who made this happen.

The modern legal systems are just not products of conceptual and theoretical categories but are extensions of a special ideological structure, which consisted of religious morality, feudal domination, and law. This forms the base to think that legal philosophy is interdisciplinary because this domain is between the territory of law and the field of philosophy.

But, the acceptance of inter- and multidisciplinary proved to be drastically more difficult in Jurisprudence (as in the humanities in general) than in the natural sciences. For instance, natural science is organized on the basis of practicality, whereas ideological momenta have a bigger role in the human disciplines and cultural evolution giving rise to new thoughts and approaches than pragmatic-rational reflections. Thus, Law and legal profession has a lot of responsibility to our society, especially in the wake of complex scientific, social, economic and political changes and developments affecting human relationships. Any legal issue in this fast moving society necessarily embraces the 'peeping and application' of other disciplines. That is why there is all around discussion and deliberation to launch single integrated multidisciplinary studies keeping the man in the center of it.

We are fortunate to have five papers on multiple disciplines for the second volume ranging from primary field study to reviews and reflections on multiple disciplines but finally lacing with Law.

I hope our objective shall fetch good research contributions from different professionals from different disciplines and help the journal go a long way showing light to the world.
