Respected ma'am/Sir

This is to inform the concerned authorities that I won't be able to attend the workshop on maternity law because I am a member of CRDA and I have an event tomorrow. Thus, due to the above reason I'm unable to excuse myself from my responsibilities. I would request you not to blacklist me for any further events.

Regards

Diya Mal

MATERNITY LAW WORKSHOP

The Centre for Specialization in Business and Innovation(C.S.B.I) had conducted a workshop on Maternity Law on the 29th of August, 2018 at the Convention Hall at 9:30 A.M. Dr. Meeta Sengupta, a Fellow of the Salzburg Global Seminar and a Fellow of the Royal Society of Arts, was the speaker of the day. She has also been the Senior Advisor of the Centre for Civil Society. She has been a member of the Federation of Indian Chambers of Commerce and Industry (FICCI) Skills Development Forum. She is also the member of Education Expert on the National Council of National Independent Schools Alliance (NISA). She has been a keen observer of how economics, foreign policy and investments affect the policy and thereby the practice of education. She has worked both as a policy observer and at the coalface of education in various roles across countries.

The number of students from various batches who turned up for the session was 200. The workshop had an interactive ambience and the topics that were addressed revolved around the responsibilities of the male partner, that is, the father of the child in upbringing the baby and the role of the company in bearing with the mother who worked as an employee in the company. She explained as to why women quit their jobs; The number of educated but unemployed women is on the rise due to the fact that once a woman is pregnant, she becomes incapable of carrying on with the day to day office work and leave becomes a necessity but since she gets no incentive to get back to her work after the delivery of the baby, quitting her job and taking care of the baby seems to be the most appropriate way to nurture a healthy household as per the societal norms and beliefs. She talked about how there is a huge difference in wages of the working men and women. In fact, even at the same post, the male gets paid more than the female. She then went on to explain how important it is to recognise the work of the women as much as the men and in fact, by way of payment for the work, the acknowledgement of skills is done, which should be unbiased towards any gender. She also talked about how from the very childhood, the minds are fed with the belief that the men are superior to women and the children, over the years, have been taught, not only the definite roles of women in the society, but also, the behaviour patterns and traits that women should possess in order to be accepted by the society. The fact that women are responsible for caring for the family and feeding them and that the men should be the bread winners of the family was debated and discussed by the honourable speaker and students and conclusively stated that not only the household work should be shared by both the partners but also the job of earning for the family should be divided. This led to the discussion of the relevance of paternity leave for the father of the baby, immediately after the delivery of the baby, so that responsibilities could be shared equally.

The students who participated in the workshop developed an insight about the aforesaid topics and not only did they reflect about the issues being discussed but they even responded and voiced out their opinions freely as well as resolved their doubts about the field of study. The session was very much appreciated and it ended on a good note. The objective of the workshop being fulfilled, it paved the way for conducting more workshops of such kind in the future.
