GUEST LECTURE SERIES: -

1. A guest lecture on "Phonetics, Book Review, and Citations" and "Inter/Intra-Personal Communication, Memo/Notice Writing, and Abbreviations" was organised on 7th June 2023. The resource person was Dr Kalapoorna, and she commenced the lecture by introducing students to the fascinating world of phonetic symbols, sounds, and transcription. Emphasising the importance of these elements in language learning, she provided practical examples to demonstrate their significance in improving pronunciation and comprehension.

The session then transitioned to book reviews, where Dr Kalapoorna shed light on different approaches to understanding and analysing a story. She highlighted this skill's relevance in academic and professional contexts, particularly for conducting practical case studies. Furthermore, she emphasized the importance of proper citation practices, discussing various citation styles and their significance in academic writing. Dr Kalapoorna's enthusiastic responses and detailed explanations further enriched the learning experience.

2. A guest lecture on "Inter/Intra-Personal Communication, Memo/Notice Writing, and Abbreviations" was organised on 12th June 2023. Ms. Sikha Nayak, Assistant Professor at VNR VJIET, Bachupally Hyderabad, was invited as the resource person. The Resource person delivered the lecture focusing on essential communication skills in professional settings. She began by exploring the dynamics of inter/intra-personal communication, emphasising its crucial role in effective workplace interactions. Students gained insights into both synchronic and diachronic communication, acquiring valuable knowledge for establishing meaningful professional relationships.

Ms Nayak provided students with comprehensive guidance on drafting these essential business documents, covering aspects such as format, tone, and content. The session also introduced the usage of abbreviations in writing practices, elucidating their significance in concise and effective communication.
